Sail the Douro River with Emerald Waterways

The Douro River winds its way from Spain into Northern Portugal, an area almost lost in time, scattered with quaint villages, working family farms, and countless vineyards producing the specialties of the region.

The map shows the Douro River route starting in Salamanca, Spain, and flowing through Vega de Terrón, Pociinho, Régua, Pinhào, and ending in Porto, Portugal. The river is highlighted in a dark blue line with yellow circular markers at each stop. The countries Portugal and Spain are labeled in large, bold, teal letters.

Douro River

The Douro runs through one of Europe's most beautiful stretches of countryside, flanked by vineyards under the warming Portuguese sun. Traditional wineries and charming villages break up the fields of green which typify the Douro region.

- The Douro at 765 km long is one of the longest rivers of the Iberian Peninsula.
- Emerald Radiance, our most intimate Star-Ship in Europe to date, with a capacity of 112 guests sails the Iberian waters.
